Scripture Passage: Jeremiah 17:1-18, ESV Pew Bible page 645

“A Revolution in the Human Heart”

“We require a word from without to interpret the world to us. In the rebellion of unbelief, human beings reject that word and are thrown back upon their own constructions of reality, their own interpretations of the world. These stories we tell ourselves are conditioned not merely by our time and place but also, and more fundamentally, by the self-seeking that is inherent to our rebellion against God. In our weakness, we are sinners. In our sinfulness, we are weak” ~ Mark Seifrid

Because the _____ of the _____ is the _____ of the _____, the central focus of God’s redemptive work is the human _____.

1. The Divine Diagnosis (vv. 1–4).

2. The Brokenness Within (vv. 5–11).

3. The Heartfelt Plea (vv. 12–18).
